

The Chapels Royal of St Peter ad Vincula and St John the Evangelist
HM Tower of London

Dear friends,

Like many people around the country and within Europe, I was appalled at Donald Trump's dismissal of our servicemen and women who had served in Afghanistan, suggesting that they had stayed 'well behind the front line'. That is factually untrue. The Helmand province of Afghanistan saw some of the bloodiest and fiercest fighting of the whole operation. British, American, Dutch, and German troops (to name but four countries) worked closely alongside each other, and the high number of casualties, on all sides, indicates the level of fighting and injuries. As a former army chaplain, I recall vividly standing on the tarmac, accompanied by grieving parents and other loved ones, awaiting the bodies of soldiers who had, without question, died on the front line. This was a disgraceful comment from Mr Trump, who should have known better and instead shown considerable respect for all those servicemen and women, including of course those from his own nation, who died serving their countries. Many of us will also not forget Mr Trump referring in 2018 to the huge numbers of American dead in the Aisne-Marne American Cemetery, near Paris, as 'losers'.

This reminds me that all of us have a responsibility to be careful both about what we say, and the way that we say it. Great damage can be done by a throwaway comment or an ill-thought-out sentence.

Clearly, none of us is perfect, and if we get angry or carried away, we may risk saying or writing something that can be offensive or damaging, doing ourselves absolutely no credit. St Benedict in his Rule of Life says it is better to say nothing than to say something which can cause hurt or injury to another person. I'm all for strong leadership, but I also believe in graciousness and humility in leadership, which comes from accepting that to lead is also to serve.

Please be reminded that next Sunday, February 1st, there will be one service only, in the White Tower at 0930, to which you are all most welcome.

With my best wishes, thoughts and prayers for you all, Roger.

Poem of the week: ‘A man’s a man, for all that’ by Robert Burns

Robert ‘Rabbie’ Burns (25 January 1759 – 21 July 1796) is widely regarded as the national poet of Scotland and is also celebrated worldwide for the humanity of his poetry. Last Sunday saw Burns Night, when even the local London Waitrose had a run on haggis and neeps (swedes, please, not turnips), not to mention the odd dram of the water of life. Burns wrote mostly in his Ayrshire dialect, and a few words may need explanation:

gowd = gold

hoddin-grey = a coarse cloth worn by the less well-off

birkie = someone full of himself

cuif = fool

aboon = above

mauna fa’ = must not come by bear the gree = win first place.

Burns wrote this poem the year before he died. Was he reflecting on the world in which he had lived? Its theme is the equality of people, whatever their apparent rank and status. In his final stanza he prays that Sense and Worth (as opposed to inherited rank or achieved status) may win out and that all the world may be one in brotherhood. Amen to that.

A Man’s A Man For A’ That Robert Burns (1759-96)

Is there for honest poverty
That hings his head, an a’ that?
The coward slave, we pass him by –
We dare be poor for a’ that!
For a’ that, an a’ that,
Our toils obscure, an a’ that,
The rank is but the guinea’s stamp,
The man’s the gowd for a’ that.

A prince can mak a belted knight,
A marquis, duke, an a’ that!
But an honest man’s aboon his might –
Guid faith, he mauna fa’ that!
For a’ that, an a’ that,
Their dignities, an a’ that,
The pith o’ sense an pride o’ worth,
Are higher rank than a’ that.

What though on hamely fare we dine,
Wear hoddin grey, an a’ that?
Gie fools their silks, and knaves their wine –
A man’s a man for a’ that.
For a’ that, an a’ that,
Their tinsel show, an a’ that,
The honest man, tho e’er sae poor,
Is king o’ men for a’ that.

Then let us pray that come it may
(As come it will for a’ that),
That Sense and Worth o’er a’ the earth,
Shall bear the gree an a’ that.
For a’ that, an a’ that,
It’s coming yet for a’ that,
That man to man, the world, o’er,
Shall brithers be for a’ that.

Ye see yon birkie ca’d ‘a lord,’
Wha struts, an stares, an a’ that?
Tho hundreds worship at his word,
He’s but a cuif for a’ that.
For a’ that, an a’ that,
His ribband, star, an a’ that,
The man o’ independent mind,
He looks an laughs at a’ that.

Please continue to pray for peace in Ukraine and the countries of the Middle East:

God of peace and justice, we pray for the people of Ukraine and the Middle East today.

We pray for peace and the laying down of weapons.

We pray for all those who fear for tomorrow,
that your Spirit of comfort would draw near to them.

We pray for those with power over war or peace,
for wisdom, discernment, and compassion to guide their decisions.
Above all, we pray for all your precious children, at risk and in fear,
that you would hold and protect them.

This we pray in the name of Jesus, the Prince of peace. Amen.

With best wishes to all, Roger.
